YS Help

To: Savannah Stone <savannahs@salinecountylibrary.org>

Cc: Rebecca Kidder <rebeccak@salinecountylibrary.org>

I've got a few things I could really use help on this week. I thought it might be easiest if I just wrote a list while I'm thinking about it and if you have time to work on any of it, just let me know what you're able to knock out. If I get anything done on the list I'll let you know, too.

- Put away/clean up Valentine decor
 - Valentine Station craft supplies and cart (all of it lives in the Makerspace)
 - Hanging decor in J and E (weird ceiling hangers can go in a baggie and on my desk)
- Hang hearts with favorite book titles on windows in YA
- Check that I Spy and Scavenger Hunt lists are replenished (hard copies on in a file hanging on the left side of my desk)
- Fill book displays with new books
 - Shelf tops and plexiglass racks in J
 - Shelf tops and plexiglass racks in E
 - Shelf tops in YA
 - Change out nonfiction book display on table in J
 - It can be any theme. Right now it's cookbooks, but could be fun facts, biographies-- whatever you like. Make an appealing flyer promoting the books.
- Print flyers for current and upcoming programs
 - We need flyers for the bulletin boards in J and to go on the double doors in E.
 - You may need to contact Benton YS to get the flyers they've made for their programs
 - Tiny Art Show (Benton)
 - Earth Day
 - Cereal Day
 - Easter Egg Hunt
 - Library Prom
 - all the weekly storytimes, tween programs, and teen programs
 - You can reference the calendar to make sure we have flyers for all the programs
 - I will share the posters I have with you on Canva
- Collect Tiny Art Show submissions (They can go on a shelf behind my desk)
- Create a display for YA brick wall
 - I'm worried the paper will fall down if anything is stuck to it, so maybe we can hang things from the ceiling in front of the wall??)
- Help organize volunteers
 - Call recent applicants and schedule a regular time/day of the week they can come.

- There is a folder on my desk with recent applications that need calling
- Mark at the top right corner of the application when they've been contacted
- Greet volunteers and set them up with tasks
 - Make sure they sign-in
 - Prepping Make and Take kits
 - Sanitizing toys in E area
 - Cleaning toys in yuck bucket
 - Shredding
 - Front books
 - Remove red dots from books older than three months
 - Vacuum storytime benches

This is what I can think of atm. If I think of anything to add, I'll put them on this thread. I really appreciate any help you can give!!

Service Alert

Dear Ingram Customer,

ON HOLD: IPAGE MULTI-FACTOR AUTHENTICATION

As part of Ingram's ongoing commitment to providing our customers with the highest protection standard, we recently shared a preemptive communication for implementing multi-factor authentication (MFA) at the end of the month.

However, due to unforeseen issues discovered during testing, MFA is on hold while we work diligently to ensure an efficient user experience.

As of now, there is no action required from you. In the coming week(s), we will communicate the new implementation date, best practices, and an FAQ.

Thank you for your understanding,

Ingram Library Services

MFA is an authentication method that requires a second verification factor once a user provides their username and password. This additional level of security is being put in place to protect your account information from cyberattacks. It will also eliminate the current solution to security questions.

- June 24th - Hiking Trip Bois D'Arc Wildlife Refuge - 6a- 6p - Bella & one staff member

Remember, you can typically bring your kids to these events if that is an incentive for you. If you choose to do an event, please let me know as soon as you can so I can make sure to plan accordingly. Once people in this chain divvy things up, it will go out to all staff if I still need help, however we don't get many volunteers for that. I really rely on help for these, so I fully appreciate you taking the time to do these things, however, don't stress yourself out to make something work. You all have your own programs and events, so I understand. If you can't attend but would like to contribute in other ways like making kits or providing flyers or items that pertain to your area, feel free.

New Library Marketer Shares Her Winning TikTok Success Secrets!

Angela Hursh, Library Marketing Expert

Feb 13

Francesca Castro has been visiting libraries for as long as she can remember.

“My mother took me to children's programs at the public library when I was very young,” recalled Francesca. “Then, in elementary and middle school, I begged my parents for cash to spend at the annual book fair. In college, I was pulling all-nighters and made some of my best memories of my academic career in the library.”

Now, not even a year after graduating from Arkansas State University with a degree in communications, Francesca is working her first professional job at a library. And her success, particularly around TikTok, is inspiring library marketers twice her age, myself included.

Francesca is a Marketing Coordinator for the Saline County Library in Benton, Arkansas. The library has a service population of about 85,000 residents.

Francesca's interest in managing the library's TikTok began during her interview. "I remember asking if Saline County Library (SCL) had a TikTok account," she said. "Their response was no. So I told them if they hired me, I would make a Saline County Library TikTok account and that I had gone viral a few times on my personal account and would want to do the same for SCL."

"I understand that it is hard to grab the attention of teens and tweens these days and a lot of them are already on TikTok, so why not bring the library content to them, " continued Francesca. "I also use the platform to show that libraries are more than what people assume that they are. I have made videos about what working in the library is like versus what people probably think it is like, and I make sure to post content that shows you can check out items other than books."

Francesca has created more than 40 posts on TikTok since she launched the Saline County Library account, which has nearly 500 followers. One of the most popular posts is a simple, short slideshow of storytime set to music.

@salinecountylibrary

Today is nationalrubberduckday! We celebrated by having a story time, singing songs, and even adopting your very own rubber duck. #librarytiktok

🎵 Rubber Duckie - Sing N Play

She's quick to jump on trends, like this one featuring the Titanic theme. Francesca also appears in some of the posts, which adds a personal touch to the account and adds a face that library patrons may recognize when they walk into the building.

@salinecountylibrary

I love marketing for my library ❤️ #marketing

#librarymarketing #booktok #librarytiktok

🎵 well this is gonna be my personality - Ted Nivison

Francesca does have a secret formula for TikTok success based on her experience and research.

"I have learned to almost spam posts on TikTok," she revealed. "The algorithm on TikTok is like an endless loop, and videos from weeks ago are still floating on the surface. Unlike other platforms, your post would not be the first to pop up on the screen after a few days. The reason I say spam post is because the more videos you post, the more content you have going through that endless loop."

@salinecountylibrary

Ranking the chairs around the library #librarytiktok #Inverted

🎵 original sound - SendAFriend ✨

"Another tip I have figured out is to keep the content short and relatable. The key to success on TikTok is to be short, entertaining, and straight to the point."

And even though consistency is key, Francesca admits she is not always consistent when it comes to posting TikToks. "I usually post them when I have an idea, and I get inspiration from other library TikTok accounts. I try to post 3-5 times a week."

Many library marketers are also intimidated by the process of editing videos for TikTok. But Francesca says you don't need fancy editing software or third-party apps. Simplicity is key.

"When it comes to editing the videos, I usually just edit them on TikTok, which only takes a few minutes," she advised. "I will say I am consistent with the hashtags I use. I like to use #Librarytok #librarymarketing, and #booktalk."

And although she's only six months into her new role, Francesca has advice for other libraries looking to use TikTok to reach new audiences.

"If you are unsure about starting a TikTok page, I suggest you have a person or a team of people who are outgoing and not shy to run the page," she said. "The advice I would give any Library would be to beware of trends and KNOW YOUR AUDIENCE!"

Viewer note: The next Super Library Marketing post will be released on Monday, February 27.

Art Unites!: Tiniest Art Show

ArtUnites--TinyArtShow23.png;

Good morning, everybody!

Get out your spectacles and magnifying glasses because it's time for our 2nd Annual Tiniest Art Show!

After last year's success, I had to bring it back! This year to give people some sort of starting point with their art, I decided to give the show a theme and tie it into our upcoming "All Together Now" summer reading program theme. The theme is "Art Unites!," as we have learned how important connection and unity are to our individual and society's wellbeing. "Art is not what you see, but what you make others see" -- so the theme is whatever you make of it!

As usual, there will probably be plenty of questions that get asked over the next two weeks, so here's the big details:

- TO PARTICIPATE: Pick up a FREE Tiny Art kit, while supplies last! Kits are available BY REQUEST starting TODAY at both branches at the Youth Service desks.

*we have 150 kits TOTAL, and I am not, repeat NOT, making anymore 🤖

*we want people to have to ask for them so they're more likely to actually bring them back to display

*Bryant, y'all's kits are coming over this morning!

- OPEN TO ALL AGES, all skills, and all interpretations of the theme 😊 - last year we had submissions from ages 2 to 80! 🎉

- Submissions are due by February 28!

- Exhibit will display from March 6-31

- They will be judged and winners for each age group will receive...something (no clue what said something will be other than it'll be nicer than a certificate, but that's as far as I've put thought into that).

- STAFF ARE WELCOME TO PARTICIPATE!

*If you would like to participate, and you're in Benton, I have all the same supplies IN Makerspace so we can save the kits for patrons!

*For Bryant staff, I also have a handful of kits that I ran out of the black-white-brown paints and had those set aside to preferably give to staff first and can send those to y'all if you'd like to participate as well! I know Becca has plenty of paints and stuff in Makerspace too if you need those missing colors!

Hopefully this will answer any questions you might receive! Pretty much all other questions will have answers found IN the kits but let me know if you do have any questions!

Have a wonderful day! 😊

Could we have four brackets, with each bracket having 16 books in a genre? Surely we could come up with 16 romance titles, classics, YA... I mean, who wouldn't want to see an elite 8 matchup between Goodnight Moon and Where the Wild Things Are? A final where Eric Carle takes on a Brontë sister?

Good Afternoon friends,

I have an idea! I need your help!!

March is just around the corner, and I would like to have our version of March madness, but instead of basketball players, we use books!

Therefore, I present book madness!!! My idea is to have 16 different books. Each week throughout March, four books get eliminated! Voting will take place through Facebook.

Friends, can you please be so kind as to, send me book recommendations for this contest and also to share and vote on your favorite books on our Facebook page (when this happens)!

I also plan to have a poster of the bracket in the lobby with the books Velcroed on the poster. If anyone has any questions or would like to bring more ideas to light feel free!!

Thanks,
Francesca

For the [REDACTED] that seems to be living out of [REDACTED] vehicle, as long as [REDACTED] isn't causing any issues and is using the library responsibly, I don't see an issue. Does [REDACTED] stay parked overnight? If so, you may mention that since it is technically county property, [REDACTED] shouldn't stay parked overnight but is more than welcome to use the parking lot during business hours. If [REDACTED] not causing any trouble though, I wouldn't pursue it too much. Just letting [REDACTED] know that y'all are aware of his presence should be enough.

The one on the staff side: that's another issue if you haven't seen anyone near it. You may put a post-it on the driver's door or the windshield letting them know that it will be towed next week if it hasn't moved over the weekend. That sounds more like abandonment of a vehicle. It is in our Behavior Policy that vehicles are not allowed to be left in the parking lot without prior permission.

I hope that helps!

Most of the credit card numbers don't match the statement, and we need to update our records to make the payment process more streamlined. Subject: [Arklib-l] Free Speech Panel at Hendrix

Greetings, Colleagues,

Please make time to attend a panel discussion hosted by Hendrix's library in Conway this Thursday, February 23 at 4:10 pm in Bailey Library's Learning Commons. The panel is "On the Frontlines of Free Speech: Libraries & Censorship," and will feature panelists from academic, school, and public library settings. More details from the press release are below – would love to see the library community turn out for this one!

Thanks,
Britt

In observance of National Library Lovers Month, Bailey Library and Project Pericles at Hendrix College will host a panel discussion, On the Frontlines of Free Speech: Libraries & Censorship. The discussion will take place in the Learning Commons of Bailey Library (building 8 on the current campus map) on Thursday, Feb. 23 from 4:10-5:00 p.m., and is free and open to the public.

The panel will feature professionals from three settings:

- Dr. Jonathan Hancock is an associate professor of history and directs Project Pericles at Hendrix.
- Dr. Erin Shaw is an assistant professor at the University of Central Arkansas and coordinates the Graduate Library Media & Information Technologies Program in the Department of Leadership Studies.
- Adam Webb leads the Garland County Library System, which includes the city of Hot Springs, and serves as president of Advocates for All Arkansas Libraries.

Throughout the 2021-22 school year, more than 1,600 book titles were banned in the U.S., according to a report from the group PEN America, which advocates for freedom of expression. The surge in book bans is a result of a network of local political and advocacy groups targeting books with LGBTQ+ characters and storylines, and books involving characters of color. The American Library Association (ALA) issued a report in September that indicated challenges to books continue to rise this academic year. Based on their records, 1,651 unique titles were targeted between January and August 2022, with 681 attempts to ban or restrict library resources. The ALA's Office for Intellectual Freedom counted 729 challenges to library, school, and university materials in 2021— which rose four-fold from the prior year.

The trend is reflected in Arkansas. Public library displays, story times, and collections have come under scrutiny from members of the public. School libraries have seen challenges from groups such as Moms for Liberty, and librarians have received death threats. While academic libraries in Arkansas haven't seen as many challenges to their materials, many curricular resources supporting teaching of race and inequity are being questioned, as is affirmative action and its role in college admissions and the support for offices of diversity, equity, and inclusion. In the fall of 2022, the Conway School Board voted to remove two books from Conway Junior High that featured LGBTQ themes. Legislation to regulate what libraries have on their shelves and in their networks and what kind of access libraries provide to minors is currently in committee in the Arkansas State Legislature.

Just a friendly reminder to please put the Seed Library container on the bags to go to Bryant daily. There should be two containers over at Benton right now. I use these to send over the seed orders daily, so they don't get lost, but today I put the seed orders in an in-transit bag.

YS Assistant

Rebecca Griffin <rebeccag@salinecountylibrary.org>

Tue 2/21/2023 11:16 AM

To: Rebecca Kidder <rebeccak@salinecountylibrary.org>

Here is a list Julie and I came up with that YS assistant or YS specialty person could do:

- Prep/Clean-up for programs
- Prep/Clean-up decor
- Cover MS when needed
- Cover YS desk when needed
- Help train volunteers
- Shelf-read
- Displays
- Submit receipts
- Update statistics
- Help during programming/SRP

I know adding a position is sort of the opposite direction the library's been taking lately and we are short with Sabina leaving, so I'm totally not expecting any changes to be made. 😊, but here's the list just to file away in the cabinet of future wishes.

I think two matching "feeling fun" rugs (one by the chairs and one by the toys) would be great to unify the area, but the meadow rug is cute, too.

Currently we have 7'8" x 5'4" in the oversized chair area.

I think the toy area needs 10'9" x 7'8", for sure.

Thanks. Just wanted to let you know I did see this pop up on my watch over the weekend but by the time I was able to stop and look at the FB post, we already had shares. Facebook has removed the feature that allows us to change a photo to an already existing post so we can update the text but not the photo. And once we delete an image that is shared, it will show up as "post unavailable" on those that have shared it. So sometimes, we just have to take the hit and just comment something like "Oops. We made a mistake." or "Please forgive our misspelled word. Guess we were excited about the three-day weekend a little too much!"

Hi everyone,

If you recognize anyone in these photos, please let Julie and I know outside of this chain email. There are several more boxes to get through and most are not labeled in any way. So, any help would be very much appreciated on our journey into the museum's collections. We are making history every day!

Thanks,

Cody

Subject: Traveling Exhibition - "John Bell, Jr.: A Painted Legacy"

About John Bell, Jr.

John Bell, Jr. displayed artistic creativity from a young age and drew inspiration from Renoir, Jacques-Louis David, and Edouard Leon Cortes. From these sources, Bell crafted his unique approach and style, documenting 19th- and 20th-century Fort Smith history with a romantic eye. Bell spent his time developing his skills as an artist and also overcoming the perceptual bias that faced people with physical challenges. Through his life-long advocacy, Bell helped raise awareness of accessibility issues.

Because of his focus on artistic achievement, his discipline, his creativity, and his stubborn refusal to let his physical challenges impede his progress, Bell became Fort Smith's most famous artist and a force for positive change.

John Bell, Jr.: A Painted Legacy* from the Fort Smith Regional Art Museum, is now being made available for presentation at museums, libraries and public venues for years 2024 - 2026.

Please find the Exhibition Prospectus attached.

I look forward to hearing your thoughts on this amazing exhibition.

If you want, I can go over our notes from the meeting we had last week and I can talk about any other things you would like me to talk about.

Oh! And during my weekly meeting with Fran, we talked about putting the seed library new seeds on the calendar when they drop if you want. I know getting more seed library patrons is not our main goal but it will bring more attention to the program.

Everyone will be getting a book (unless you've taken it with another department) about StrengthsFinder/CliftonStrengths.

There is a code in the back that you'll use to take the online assessment. The assessment is timed, so this needs to be done during desk time where you can focus on it. You can use the laptops in our office if you'd like! When you get your top 5, send those to me.

You're not required to read the whole book. It's more of a reference book. You can read about your top 5 strengths.

Please try to have your assessment taken and your top 5 to me before our March 9th Bryant meeting. We'll use this meeting to discuss everyone's strengths. (We'll only have an hour, but we'll try to make it through!) Everyone will get a copy of each other's to help! This is a great way to learn more about each other and how we communicate, work with others, and our variety of strengths.

The CliftonStrengths has a total of 34 themes, but with the book code, you get your top 5. If you want to see all of yours, you'll have to pay for it out of your pocket. (I'm sorry!)

So, Geoff has been trying to get the wi-fi working in the Heritage room and I determined that we need another access point, as the one that was purchased is incompatible with our current equipment. I have ordered it and it should be here no later than Thursday next week. Once we have it, it shouldn't take very long to get wi-fi to the Heritage room.

That's a possibility. My concern with not moving it would be having children around the YA books...of course, that should be the parent's responsibility to watch them.

I was so torn because I heard that there were complaints when it was that way before and there's no way to close it off.

I just wanted to throw it out there. I think we keep as is and then we can always do something if needed once a play area is there. Like I said, I'm imagining years before that's done.

The fencing makes sense so that kids cannot run into the road and so that our features are secured afterhours...

I don't like the idea of moving the YA section for that exact reason. It puts the teens front and center.

For Bryant, would most of the play area usage be during the day before the after-school crowd arrives and summertime so walking through the YA area to access it wouldn't be too much hassle?

We moved the YA section to the back because of the noise level in having teens under the high ceiling and at the front door. We had complaints all the time.

Why does the outdoor area need to be fenced in?

We're looking at rearranging a few things, especially with the SB81 bill being passed so quickly.

I understand this has been done before, but we're thinking about switching the YA and Children's section. That way, the Children's section would be closer to the J section and more blocked from YA and adult. Becca is measuring to see if it would work. If it did, we may not need additional YA shelves, which would also save money.

Thoughts?

We have several requests throughout the year for patrons to teach classes. I have finally added the page/form to the website. If a patron says they would like to have a class or program, please direct them to the site to fill out the form- just like our outreach event attendance form.

The form can be found under the about tab>under stay connected> Patron Led Program Application. There is an option to download and print the form, also. (No, Patty, it is not a accessible PDF yet. That is my next task for this thing.)

If you go off-site for lunch, you have to record a 30-minute break.

Please let me know ASAP what you want to do on those two days, so I make sure staff is not left alone at the end of the day. It is against the rules for everyone to leave while one person has to work an extra 30 minutes, so let's work together on this! I'm all for leaving early!!

When checking in items please make sure to open the DVD and audio cases to make sure the disc or all discs are accounted for. Also, make sure the correct disc is inside the case. We have found around 5 DVDs on our shelves here lately that had no disc inside or they had the wrong disc inside. If you come across a situation like this when checking in, please fill out the red damaged/missing slip of paper and place it along with the item in my damaged/missing basket by the shredding machine.

When shelving books in the children's section (ER/E picture books) make sure to keep an authors collection shelved together (example: Dr. Seuss books should all be kept together if another book happens to have Seu for the call # that is not a Dr. Suess book that book should be shelved after or before the Seuss collection. It should not be shelved in the middle of the Dr. Seuss books)

Also, please keep alike books shelved together (example: There are two copies of Green eggs and Ham by Dr. Seuss, both of those copies should be shelved together on the shelf. They shouldn't be shelved separate from each other in the collection)

Another section the two examples above would apply to is the Disney section (E Dis or ER Dis). Not only should the same titles be placed together but all ariel books, pooh books, etc. should be kept together within the section. Please be conscious of any other areas that need this done as well.

Thank you guys!

Subject: Idea: Genre sticker in the item record?

Hi!

So we're going to stick (ahahaha) with using genre stickers to identify books without reshelving them. That got me wondering:

For fiction books, what would you think of having the chosen genre sticker listed as an Item Cat, as well as a 650 subject heading in the bib record? (After all, lots of books have multiple subject headings, and right now there's not a way to indicate which subject was "chosen" and put on the book itself.)

I think this means that we could eventually go into BiblioCommons, click "cozy mystery" (or any of the other stickers), and bring up a full list of titles.

(Note: I haven't experimented with this myself yet, but I totally stole this idea from the sysadmin listserv, so it should work.) Should I try to tentatively experiment and see what happens?

To: allstaff@salinecountylibrary.org <allstaff@salinecountylibrary.org>

Good Morning,

We had so many great nominations it was so hard for us to make a decision! Here are your winners for March! You start using your parking spot tomorrow!

Bryant:

Julie Joiner

Julie has gone above and beyond with outreach and getting our name into the schools around the area. With her creativity, she plans amazing activities and crafts for the students to do. She is always willing to lend a hand when help is needed at the circulation desk.

Julie has become more comfortable with the YA section and is already improving the area to make it more inviting. She is great at listening to the wants and needs of the teens and plans programs around that. For example, she has continued the cooking and gaming programs.

Benton:

Joel Beck

Joel has the best attitude. He's recently been made full-time and has taken on his extra duties with aplomb.

In addition to taking on new duties as a full-time employee, Joel has also started working on the display committee and has come up with great ideas. The kissing booth with the mirror for Valentine's Day? All Joel. He's so creative and funny and just a delight to work with.

March Course Highlights

Check out these courses coming up in March. Registration closes at the end of the first week of classes at midnight. Consider our classes a more affordable alternative to conference attendance.

Redefining Wellness for Librarians of Color

The emotional challenges of being a diverse person in librarianship have been studied, researched, and highlighted over the last few years. However, wellness directed specifically to librarians of color is a newer phenomenon. Librarians of color struggle with microaggressions, racism, and overall low-morale in the workplace. Amanda M. Leftwich's personal work history and research on the topic resulted in recommendations of wellness, specifically for librarians of color.

Through the use of literature review, wellness check prompts, and community practice the participants in this course will analyze, reflect, and critically examine wellness in libraries and their own overall experiences.

Introduction to Critical Digital Librarianship

This course explores major topics in critical digital librarianship, an emerging field relevant to all types of library roles that interact with unique digital collections. We will engage with material that bring feminist, antiracist, queer, and other critical frameworks to digital librarianship. Topics include ethical digital selection, responsible open data, reparative description, critical software review, and the role of training for future librarians. This course pulls from the instructor's first-hand experience with a wide variety of critically-engaged cultural heritage projects, as the co-founder of the

#LDLasData Speaker Series and as editor of the Journal of Critical Digital Librarianship.

The schedule of the course will be flexible to meet the needs and interests of the students. We will prioritize creating spaces of respect and appreciation for the work of our colleagues, and we will approach all critiques from a place of honest attempts for a healthier, more inclusive librarianship.

Zotero for Librarians

In this four-week course, we'll learn the basics of Zotero with a focus on assisting patrons and colleagues. Zotero is a free and open-source citation management software that can organize references for all types of materials as well as store associated files. It can also generate citations and bibliographies for those references. In the final two weeks we'll dive deeper into the software and explore advanced workflows for your unique needs. Class assignments are practical and tailored to be used after the course. Learners might design a library guide, write a lesson plan, or script a reference interaction. Library workers who don't help patrons and/or write articles or presentations might develop a workflow for grant proposals or plan a system migration. No previous experience with Zotero or any other citation management program is required or expected, and library workers in every type of role and library are encouraged to enroll.

Practical and Transparent Advice for the Academic Library Job Search

The academic job market is brutal, and especially so for aspiring academic librarians. With more applicants than there are jobs, the competition is fierce. First-time academic library job seekers (or even experienced job seekers) may feel lost, overwhelmed, and exhausted by all that is involved in applying for an academic library job--and even more so if they have never been clued in to how the academic search process really works. There is an unspoken unwillingness in academic libraries to share functional details of the academic search process, and allowing applicants to wander blindly through the search process benefits no one. Knowing the expectations and way an academic search functions won't necessarily make the process easier, but it will allow applicants to be smarter about how they craft their application materials, interact with the search committee, and interview. This course will shed light on the academic search process and give academic library job seekers a much-needed peek behind the hiring curtain that will help them have more agency and power over their applications. Additionally, by allowing applicants to better understand how academic searches tend to work and being clear about the expectations involved, we give them a better opportunity to present their authentic selves in their applications and interviews. The course will cover: coded language in job descriptions; typical search committee procedures; candidate scoring matrices and rankings; crafting stand-out application materials using qualification charts; and how to interview your interviewers.

Subject: Re: [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] needs to go. That's two offenses. What she saw on [REDACTED] phone could have been illegal (how does she know they weren't underage?) and the second was a threat against a staff person. I think we should talk to the police, don't you, Leigh? Or at least have them walk through every day for awhile. Maybe they will know who [REDACTED] is. Does Kari know any Bryant cops?

Subject: March 2023 Social Media Schedule

Good morning and happy Friday,

First and foremost, thank you all for your hard work and dedication to our library!

Please remember that the deadline for getting events into Communico is March 5th. Keep in mind that March 5th falls on a Sunday so be sure to plan ahead. If you need an extension for your events, please let me know asap. Last-minute additions often require redoing entire layouts and formatting of the magazine, so this deadline is firm to make sure the magazine is edited, finished, and sent out on time.

Here is the March 2023 content calendar! The color-coordinated schedule includes:

- Book Madness will be ongoing and posted weekly. Please remember to share and vote on Facebook!
- Seed Library will be posted on the 1st and 15th of every month.
- Saturdays will be a resource highlight post and Sundays is our regular "This Week" post.
- #MakerspaceMonday is posted weekly for highlighting special events, hours, kits, .
- News stories and booklists are posted twice weekly. Please be aware of these due dates! (Y'all are doing great with this btw!)
- (R) indicates a reminder post. This is not the day of the event, but just a general promotion to remind people of recurring or previously promoted events.

Key things:

- All posts are scheduled ahead of time and are automatically posted based on what is in the calendar. Please make sure your calendar events are proofed so that they are posted correctly.
- If you notice an error needs to be made after the 5th, please contact me directly so I can make edits to anything affected.
- If you need or want any specific instructions or captions for any posts, please let me know asap.
- If something needs extra (or less) promo, let me know so I can adjust the content calendar, if possible.

As always, I am happy to listen to your ideas and corrections! If there is anything I have overlooked or that you would like to change somehow, let me know asap and we can figure it out together! Thank you again!
